“ Being an artist is a blessing. It is a gift from God. It is a bitter and sweet journey—a mission of being.

I believe in God, the ultimate Creator of all things. I know that my existence was not an accident. There is a reason for us to be alive in this world. We were all created differently. We all have different gifts and talents. Not that there is one better than the other, but we all have a responsibility for the talent which we have been given. These gifts or talents are not meant for keeping, but for sharing or serving others in this world to enrich our being. -
 Dan Chen ”
